 Total Tuition Only Estimate is based on an average course load, and because tuition is charged on a per semester credit hour basis, the total will vary depending the number of credit hours taken during each semester. Typical undergraduate course load is 12 to 15 credit hours, and a typical graduate course load is 9 to 12 credit hours per semester. The estimate listed above is calculated at 12 credit hours per regular semester for an undergraduate student, and 9 credit hours per regular semester for a graduate student.

 Indicates a charge that is paid each semester. The fee for books and supplies is listed as an approximate figure to be paid each semester, based on the University's arrangement with an educational service provider and the total number of credit hours per semester. Books and supplies are provided at a reduced rate of $25 per semester credit hour. The "Total Tuition Fees and Costs Estimate," as far as books and supplies, assumes an undergraduate student is enrolled in four courses, or 12 semester credit hours at $75 per three credit hour course totaling $300; and a graduate student is enrolled in three courses, or 9 semester credit hours at $75 per three credit hour course totaling $225 per regular semester. The "Total Tuition Fees and Costs Estimate" also includes the application and registration fee, however, these fees are not charged each semester for continuously enrolled students.
